1. This is a quiet revolution not; it encompasses all peoples, nations, tribes and tongues; of afar and near, and do you know what that means/meaneth? This is the nation, this is the time, the lifting of my head, yours; yours not as thought, but yours as mine, being mine, and is there any other? Nay.

2. This is the revolution of one/all peoples, the people's revolution not as thought but the revolution that now is upon all and can you see me transparent, molecular'less? And what is light and wherefore art thou now me'd? And how did you get/become this way, of the world not, but the heaven of heavens which wherefore thou art in? I love you all.

3. See what I have asked/stated and given all to you my friend/friendeth of all. I love you all. Thou art a priest in the order of Melchizedek and this therefore raiseth my head in surrender by surrendered ones, to surrender; mass surrender see, at thy hand, right; mine, left. I love you all.

4. This is the day hour time of my appearing and was I ever not here/appearing? Or is there one so bold/simple as to arraign not flesh as supreme but knowing he can do nothing?

5. There is the appointment in me, or is there the choice that brings the appointment? And wherefore art thou surrendered my befolded one, befolded no more/longer but upright and erect, and positionless not, but in mine; are you anyone but me having brought me forth?
And who is the father and who is the son if both are one and the same being?
And what was/is your name Melchizedek?
And wanteth thou another ever again? Never.
I love you all.

6. This is the moment of cataclysm cataclysmic and all changes and all men everywhere repent, not as thought, but coming under the cloud of surrender, surrender. See. And light the way. Path'd it is. I am the door (1). I was. I am. You now too/also (2).

And who follows me/us/you? All who surrender, surreptitiously not, cataclysmically. I love you.
